First Semester Honor Roll

In order to be on the Honor Roll the Student must maintain an "A"-"B" grade average. At least four solids must be carried.

The Student is required to make "A's" and "B's" in the solids and not less than "C" in unprepared subjects.

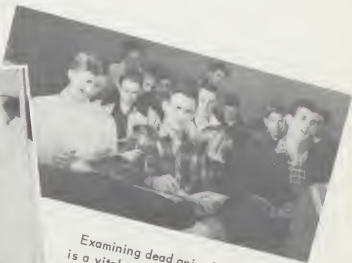

Chemistry students know the value of memorizing and careful observation.

Biology students find that an aquarium often proves useful in their study of plant and animal life.

Experimentation is a vital factor in the study of physics.

Examining dead animals is a vital part of zoology.

Science

Lowell has taken many honors in the field of agriculture—mainly from training in class, experiments, and observation trips.

A G

Shop

In shop the boys learn valuable skills in building and repairing that prove useful around home.

Home Economics

Sometime during the year each girl may choose a special project such as embroidery or painting figurines.

Measuring a hem is most important in making a skirt or dress-- Home Ec class learns a table can be an asset.

The boys sometimes outshow the girls when it comes to cooking-- and burnt fingers.

Spanish and Latin

Spansh Class is offered for the first time in years. Sometimes they use records.

The Reman Banquet proved very interesting to Latin students.

Math

Future Einsteins.

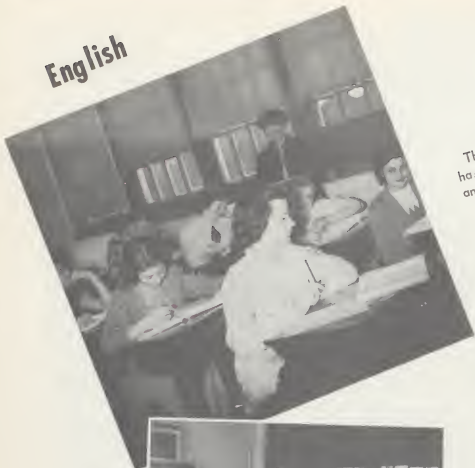

All ornaments are made annually by the Trig class.

Geometry.

English

The Senior English class has been reading "Macbeth" and classical novels.

The Sophomore English classes this year, with their new books, have been studying "Julius Caesar" and making speeches.

The Freshmen have been started out right for English in High School with "David Copperfield" and other classics.

History

The United States History classes have been reading the "American Observer." A project of their's this year was to make a booklet showing the growth of machinery in our United States.

The panel discussions and debates really keep government class moving.

The World History class gained a wealth of knowledge from the new History books.

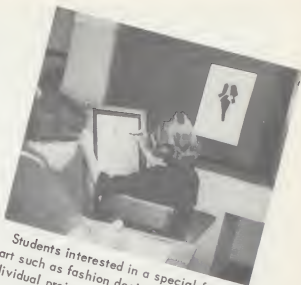

Commerce

Bookkeeping

Art

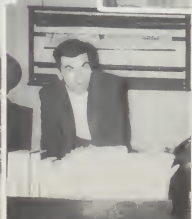

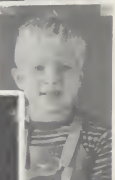

Students interested in a special form of art such as fashion design are given individual projects.

Among the many and varied things art students make are block prints, mobiles, posters, soap carvings and still-life paintings.

The Red Devils opened their training season with only two lettermen. Around this nucleus was built a sound and well conditioned squad.

At the end of the season there were 10 men on the Cross Country squad: Seniors--Captain, Lean Sirois; Jerame Jackson, most valuable; and Milford Murray. Juniors--Captain-elect, Bill Sissan (also most valuable), Rager Parks. Sophomores--Babby Burger, Eddie Schuring, Terry Cax, Terry McCarty and Dennis Brawn.

The Devils improved rapidly as the season progressed. They finished strong with wins in the last two meets and by placing well in the State Sectional at Habart.

With five returning lettermen the team should show great improvement next year and the following years.

Locker Inspection

The Student Government bought U. S. flags and hung them in every classroom. They also bought a large U. S. flag and a Devil's flag for the gym. The annual Christmas Formol, Winter Wonderland, started off the Christmas Season. A new Coke machine replaced the old one and they bought a band uniform and assisted the community by conducting the March of Dimes in the highschool.

MEMORIES

Class Prophecy

The Year 1965

"Ladies and gentlemen, this is Dorothy Stephan, roving reporter, reporting that there is a large crowd viewing this annual Petunia Bowl Parade on this crisp day. We believe there are also millions of people watching on their color-taste-feelo-vision sets.

Judy Schissler and Betty Hardesty, running for President and Vice-President on the Lovely ticket, tore themselves away from a busy schedule to make an appearance at this. They are posing now. The applause is deafening.

The parade is now progressing down the avenue with Joyce Barman, famed secretary of Herbert Hoover, driving her boss.

Joyce Bradley, the Golden Girl of 1965, is being carried down the avenue on a 14-carat gold float. Joan Clark, head of the Plush Pojamo Factory, entered a float with a giant replica of Wee-Willie-Winkie.

Accompanied by a fanfare of music, Madam Frances Mussman enters with her Paris Originals banked on lettuce leaves.

Wait! Wait! Here comes Bill Chlupsa now, in his car that won him the trophy of 1955. Following him closely is "Jiggers" Sirois, winner of the Mexican Road Race. The entree from the "Supersanic Swift Shortning Company", whose owner is Llyad Spry, is really good this year.

The "Mamma Musch's Mush-Much Company" (founder Cloro Musch), outdid themselves with a super-giant bowl of that hot cereal.

The Gorgeous George Schutz Model Agency entered with an elaborate float with Ruthie Werner, the agency's star model, the main point of interest on the float.

There is a halt in the parade, followed by Gertrude Einink, the famous trick horse rider. The float from Kenny Fetsch's Bouncing Basketball factory is a monstrous basketball mounted on a basketball court.

Our next scene is a float with a few marvelous bargains from Mona Ree Herbst's used car lot, called "Mona's Moment of Madness."

The Toni Twins, Nancy and Wardina Hill, are mounted on a huge curler float, soaked with curling lotion and neutralizer.

Fern Hutton entered a huge solid platinum button on wheels from "Struttin' Hutton's Buttons."

Now it's noon, and everyone rushes for the restaurants. The beauties on the floats are left stranded atop their floats, but Charlie Larson comes to the rescue to help them all!

Let's drop into the Wall Deaf Costorio and see all the famous people. We see three tables reserved for Val Koble. He really must be an eater.

We just can't help noticing Pat Collins. If you remember her chemistry lab experiments, you'll know how she discovered "Amozo-Grower" and experimented on herself!

There sitting at the corner table are Orville and Edgar Corns, co-designers of the car that won in 1955, also inventors of "Whizzo Corn Remover."

Virginio Copelin, the famous designer of the Collie Cut, the current hair rage, is eating her egg toasted.

Looking over the banquet table from left to right, we see the famous scientist, Terry Lindemer, who now carries on conversations with the Martians with his perfected radio set; Bob Johnson, the doctor who discovered the cure for the ingrown toe-nail; Peg Isler, the inventor of the Auto-Diaper Wash; Frank Sykora, a nose-bleed specialist; Lolo Mae Honn, the women's wrestling trainer; Norman Love, who, by propping his droopy head is still carrying on his record for sleeping the mostest and the longest; Cathi Bales who won the Nobel Prize for art by entering her "mobile"; Rex Brown, the jazz organist; Allen Kennedy, called "Cueball" because he is the champion pool player of the world; Florence Kiehn, who makes sculpture pieces from paper clips and rubber bands; and Mary K. Merchant, the famous lawyer who freed Max McRoberts of the charge of murdering Carl Ludvigson over an argument about Marilyn Tully.

The featured acts here are Chris Franzen and Dave Searle, Apache Dancers; Janet Purkey, the French blues singer; and Bob Waggoner, the famous comedian. Bob Reed and his "Crazy Cats" band, featuring "Jazzy" Jerome Jackson on his sousaphone, are entertaining here. Sharon Miller, the first woman to play "Moonlight Sonata" on the moon, came down long enough to do an engagement at this restaurant.

Class Prophecy

"Tilberry Turnips", the rove dish created by Lewis Childress, is the exotic featured dish. Another main dish is "Succulent Savory Selected Seasoned Supreme Steak Special", from Bill Viers' experimental steers.

Dolores Childress, her husband, and her twelve children are dining out this evening. Chotting to Dolores is Erna Adam and Gerold Potz, who together discovered the cure for the cammon cold. Eoting milk toast for their ulcers are Shirley Marshall and Beverly Etzel, awners of a Morshmallow and Pretzel factory.

I wonder what that commotion is outside. Let's step out and have a look. Ah, yes, everyone's going to Dawn Dorling's premiere of her newest picture. She is the former Darlene Childress.

Oh! There she is! She's talking to Tootsie Rollo, the famous octress (Tootsie Mueller of Lowell); Ronnie Peterson, who is a distant relative of Marilyn Monroe; Lorry Vossar, President of Vossar College; Mary Ann Brouer, the famous psycho-analyst; Dean Wedding, the famous author of the renowned book, "Beware of Women!"; with Dean is his assistant, George Shorp, in charge of pencils; and Tam Burgess, the coach of the Lowell Red Devils, notionally famous for winning all their games since 1954.

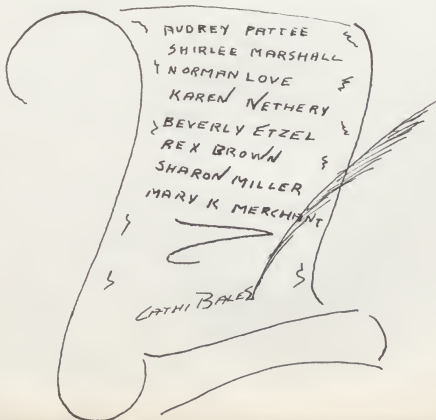

In the audience we see Louise Lutgen, who invented the mistake eraser on the typewriter; Jon Surprise, brilliant electricity technologist who invented the invisible ray gun (he glows in the dark). June Abromson, orchaecologist who discovered some rare voses; her foreman, Bill Urbonczyk; George Von Curen, who got a trophy for catching a prehistoric fish; Shirley Justok, head of Continental Travel Agency; Shirley Singleton, the chili maker at the Chez Poree; Ned Hort, who invented the automatic tablesetter; Normo Gaff, the great women galfer; Rannie Hommon, world's champion flag pole sitter; Milford Murray, the finol judge in the Cupid Contest; Lorry Littlefield, now a pediotrician; Bill McKee, whose finger paintings are the roge of the ort world; Morvin Miller, scorer for the Globe-Trotters; Koren Nethery, first to hop around the world on a pago stick; Bill Poer, who runs the Rich Farm; Bill Cox, famous singer of folk songs; Mary Forburger, inventor of the back-burger; Juanito Devins, skating stor who got her start on Bill Miller's pond(her monager); Joyce Peterson, who is a therapist far crozy bones; Audrey Pottee, famous Beddy-Time Story writer; and Kay Roy, chemistry teacher at Lowell High School, Lowell, Indiana.

After the shaw, we were shown out by Raymond Schutz, the usher. Out in the street we stopped at a peanut wagon. We recognized the proprietor as Carole Schafer. Marvin Scheidt was measuring the salt to put on a fresh batch.

From Ruth Theis, the corner policewoman, we learned that because Janette Wood didn't want to chonge her nome, she married Clayton Waod; now they have two boys named Twig and Branch, and live in the Enchanted Forest.

We now leave the benighted class of 1954 to the real future.

May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You!
